

HELP DEFINE HEALTHY AGING

Older Adult Volunteers Needed for Research Studies

The Jacksonville Aging Studies Center, or JAX-ASCENT, is looking for adults 60 and older who are interested in helping the University of Florida College of Medicine – Jacksonville explore aging and independence in older adults.

Participants will have the opportunity to be part of a variety of studies, from assessing risk factors that affect healthy aging to prevention therapies that can help improve quality of life as we age.

JAX-ASCENT REGISTRY

The JAX-ASCENT Registry is a registry of older adults interested in participating in local research studies.

As a member of the JAX-ASCENT Registry, you will receive information about the latest research being conducted at the UF College of Medicine – Jacksonville. If you qualify, you may be invited to participate in numerous studies during your time as a JAX-ASCENT Registry member.

There is no cost to you to participate in the registry. Compensation may be provided to you for your time and transportation when you participate in a research study.

To learn more about current or upcoming clinical trials, or to become a member of the JAX-ASCENT Registry, visit UFJaxagingstudy.com or call us toll free at 866.386.7730.